Beyond the Food: Essential Tips for Character Dining

- Prices: Prices are approximate and can vary depending on the season, dining package you choose (if any), and special events. Be sure to check the latest pricing information on the Walt Disney World website before booking your reservation.
- Character Appearances: Character appearances are subject to change without notice. There is no guarantee which characters will be appearing on any given day. While the table above lists typical characters you might encounter, there's always a chance to meet some surprise guests!
- Reservations: Advanced reservations are highly recommended for all character dining experiences, especially during peak seasons. You can typically make reservations up to 60 days in advance on the Walt Disney World website or by calling (407) WDW-DINE.
- Dress Code: Most character dining experiences have a casual dress code. However, for upscale locations like Cinderella's Royal Table, a smart casual dress code is recommended (think nice collared shirts, khakis, dresses, etc.). Avoid overly casual attire like ripped jeans, tank tops, or swimwear.
- Getting There: Transportation to character dining locations within the theme parks is easy. You can walk from park entrances or hop on Disney's complimentary transportation system, which includes buses, monorails, and Disney Skyliner (a gondola system). For character dining locations at Disney resort hotels, you can take a complimentary Disney bus or a ride-sharing service like Uber or Lyft.
